RAPTOR PARTNERS M&A MARKET MONITOR

SPRING 2010

U.S. M&A Strength Continues

U.S. M&A volume continued its strong growth in the first quarter of 2010, increasing 14.3% from the fourth quarter of 2009. The increase in M&A activity marked the fourth straight quarter-over-quarter increase in volume following the four-year bottom that took place in the first quarter of 2009. The turnaround in U.S. M&A activity has been very strong in comparison to the low levels reached just one year ago during the depths of the global financial crisis. U.S. M&A volume was 60.8% higher in the first quarter of 2010 as compared to the level achieved in the first quarter of 2009.

U.S. M&A activity has been led by cash-rich companies who have restructured their operations, reduced working capital and generated strong balance sheets. Companies who hoarded cash during the liquidity crisis in late 2008 and early 2009 are looking, once again, to supplement organic growth opportunities with acquisitions. Strategic acquirors are currently holding significantly greater cash and short-term investment balances than they've held over the past several years. As of the end of the first quarter of 2010, non-financial S&P 500 companies held $990 billion in cash and equivalents on their balance sheets, which was up from $784 billion at the end of the first quarter of 2009 and $689 billion at the end of the first quarter of 2008. Improved credit conditions, business fundamentals and visibility into results have also contributed to the continued improvement in M&A activity.

Cash and equivalents include short-term investments

During the first quarter of 2010, leveraged transactions remained above the low levels achieved during the first three quarters of 2009, offering further evidence of the improvements in the credit markets. Several leveraged buyouts occurred above $1 billion during the first quarter of 2010, which was virtually unheard of during most of 2009.

European Uncertainty Looms

A "perfect storm" of uncertainty has entered the European market as fears that the sovereign debt crisis, which began in Greece, is spreading to larger economies including Spain and Portugal. The uncertainty along with the sharp decline in the Euro during recent months has contributed to a pull-back in U.S. and European equity markets.

The turmoil has also led to a decline in European domestic and cross-border M&A activity as CEO and board-level confidence has declined. The ability and willingness of separate countries to work towards a fiscal rescue plan in Europe is unclear. As fears over potential reductions in European demand increase, in an already fragile global economy, the ability to properly value acquisition targets becomes more difficult.

One of the pressing questions on the minds of economists and business owners is whether the European crisis will hamper the fledgling U.S. recovery, largely fueled by government stimulus. One of the keys to improving the unemployment picture in the U.S. will be confidence that the European crisis will be resolved and will not spread further.

Valuation Trends

Median U.S. M&A valuation multiples rose again in the first quarter of 2010. The median Enterprise Value/EBITDA multiple returned to levels reached prior to the valuation bubble in 2007. The median Enterprise Value/Sales multiple increased slightly in the first quarter and remained relatively inline with its pre-2007 levels.

Global M&A transaction volume increased 3.1% during the first quarter of 2010 to 7,962 transactions from 7,720 transactions in the fourth quarter of 2009. The fourth quarter results marked the fourth straight quarterly improvement in deal volume, following the four-year bottom reached in the first quarter of 2009. The growth rate in global deals declined in the first quarter of 2010 as uncertainty over the European credit crisis impacted transactions in that part of the world. Global M&A activity increased 45.1% in the first quarter of 2010 as compared to the year ago period when global economic activity slowed dramatically.

The aggregate value of global deals announced in the first quarter of 2010 increased 1.4% to $486 billion from $480 billion in the fourth quarter of 2009. The aggregate value announced remained below levels reached during the past five years as fewer multi-billion dollar transformational transactions have been announced.

Global Yearly M&A Activity

U.S. M&A activity fared better than global activity with volume increasing 14.3% in the first quarter of 2010 to 2,799 transactions from 2,449 transactions in the fourth quarter of 2009. The U.S. economy has begun to recover quicker than the economies in Europe leading to a stronger recovery in the U.S. M&A market. The aggregate value of U.S. deals announced in the first quarter of 2010 declined 24.2% to $155 billion from $204 billion in the fourth quarter of 2009, as fewer multi-billion transactions were completed.

Technology & Business Services M&A Grows

The U.S. technology and business services sectors experienced the strongest M&A transaction volume growth in the first quarter of 2010 with increases of 33.1% and 13.9%, respectively. The technology sector is expected to benefit from an early cycle return to IT spending. Transactions were primarily smaller, tuck-in deals in those sectors. In the industrial sector, several large deals were announced in the mining and materials sectors during the first quarter.

Sector Spotlight

During the first quarter of 2010, each major sector tracked by Raptor Partners experienced an M&A transaction volume increase over the fourth quarter, except for the Industrial sector which experienced a slight decline. The technology and business services sectors experienced the strongest deal volume increases as IT spending is expected to increase as is business process outsourcing. The first quarter saw drug maker Novartis acquire a controlling stake in eyecare company Alcon for $28 billion. The deal, which valued the entire company at $51 billion, represented the largest acquisition in Swiss history. Several large transactions occurred in the materials and mining sector during the first quarter, including Peabody Energy's $3.1 billion acquisition of MacArthur Coal and Newcrest Mining's $9.1 billion acquisition of Lihir Gold. The consumer products sector witnessed a $3.7 billion acquisition of Kraft's frozen pizza business by Nestlé, as Kraft raised capital to complete its $20 billion Cadbury acquisition.

RAPTOR PARTNERS M&A MARKET MONITOR

Private Equity (“PE”) Activity

U.S. PE acquisition volume declined slightly in the first quarter of 2010, down 11.9% from the fourth quarter. The value of PE acquisitions announced during the first quarter of 2010 also declined to $9.3 billion in the first quarter from $13.6 billion in the fourth quarter. Despite the decline, PE activity remained well above the levels reached during the first nine months of 2009 as credit conditions improved for the purchase of businesses with strong fundamentals. During the quarter, Madison Dearborn acquired BWAY holding company, a North American manufacturer of rigid containers, for $0.9 billion. Also during the quarter, the proposed acquisition of Cedar Fair L.P. by Apollo Global Management was cancelled, as Cedar Fair shareholders demanded a greater valuation in light of the rebound in the U.S. economy. The PE market is expected to remain slower than usual as economic activity and financing remains uncertain.

LBO Leverage Multiples

The availability of credit in the LBO market continued to improve in the first quarter of 2010 with total debt-to-EBITDA multiples for middle-market LBO loans increasing to 4.3x from a recent low of 3.3x in 2009. Improvement in the availability of senior credit contributed to the improved leverage multiples. Pricing on LBO loans also improved with LIBOR spreads narrowing, however pricing is still above historical levels. Despite the improvement in the credit markets, the volume of LBO loans remains significantly below the levels reached during 2006 and 2007. Lenders are increasingly focused on the quality and predictability of a target's earnings prior to lending.

Larger Transactions Make Slight Comeback

During the first quarter of 2010, transactions below $100 million accounted for 84.9% of deals announced which was in line with 2009. During 2009, smaller transactions made up a larger percentage of the deals announced than in the prior three years. Transactions above $1 billion made up 2.5% of deals announced in the first quarter, up from 2.1% during 2009. Larger transactions have become more possible to finance, although a return to the boom levels of 2006 and 2007 is highly unlikely.

Takeover Premiums Continue to Normalize

Public company takeover premiums continue to return to normalized levels, following a sharp expansion in 2009. Depressed stock prices in 2009 led to the need for greater takeover premiums to entice shareholders and boards of directors to do transactions.
